Open cohort · 8 weeks · limited places · video calls + one in-person session

Build your own AI Chief of Staff.

Eight weeks, in a room of non-competing peers, building an agent that knows you, chases you, reminds you and does the work for you, on request and on its own. Then the toolkit to build the next system, for any other part of your work or life.

A room of senior leaders, vetted to be non-competing.

We keep the room small, and expect between 10 and 15 people.

THE PEER MIX

Different industries, no competitors.

No two cohort members from competing companies. Vetted at application.

THE SENIORITY BAR

Director+ / function owner.

Real decision authority. AI is on your plate, not your team's.

THE COMMITMENT

90 minutes a week. 8 weeks.

One live session a week. How much you use the tools between sessions is up to you. No certificate.

HOW IT WORKS

Eight weeks. One system, built on your real work.

These are not stand-alone sessions. Your Chief of Staff starts simple in week 1 and gets more capable every week. Each session adds a layer, so you understand how the parts fit and always have something working. In week 5 we bring it together in person, then you extend it and build your next system.

01

WEEKS 1–4 · BUILD IT UP

A Chief of Staff that knows you.

Instructions, then connections and tasks, then agent skills, then automations. Each week adds a layer, on your own email, diary and tasks.

02

WEEK 5 · BRING IT TOGETHER

It runs the whole job.

Three hours, in person and immersive. Hand it an outcome and let the layers work as one, alongside the cohort.

03

WEEKS 6–8 · EXTEND AND EVOLVE

Use the method on everything else.

Advanced capabilities, then your next system, then a showcase of what you built.

Week by week

BEFORE YOU START

Get ready

Take the AI capability assessment, map the tools you use today, and set your goal 1:1 with Toby or Andy.

WEEK 1

Your first Chief of Staff

How AI tools work, where they go wrong, and how to brief them well. Then your first folder and a simple instructions file, so Claude knows who you are and how to work for you. The habit everything else builds on.

WEEK 2

Connections and tasks

Connect your email, diary and tasks, so it sees your priorities and briefs you every morning.

WEEK 3

Agent skills

How-to guides for your recurring tasks, which Claude follows every time. Your first skill, plus a skill that helps you build the next one.

WEEK 4

Automations

Set jobs to run on a schedule, so your morning briefing arrives on its own.

WEEK 5 · IN PERSON

Orchestration

Three hours, in person and immersive. Hand it an outcome and let it run the whole job, alongside the cohort. Venue and date to be confirmed, and you can join by video if you can't be there.

WEEK 6

Advanced capabilities

Claude Design, live artifacts and smarter automations, applied to your real work.

WEEK 7

Your next system

Design your next system with the same toolkit, and see how your team could share it.

WEEK 8

Showcase

Show what you built, retake the capability assessment to see your before and after, and lock your 90-day plan 1:1.

DAY 90

Review

Review of your 90-day plan.

How each session runs

90 minutes, live

Same slot each week, agreed by the cohort.

Recorded

Every session, with a guide to keep.

Supported

A group chat for ad hoc questions and support between sessions.

WHAT YOU BUILD

Your Chief of Staff is the first system.

It starts with a folder and a few files, something you already know how to use. Each week adds sophistication, like connected tools and scheduled tasks. You leave with a working system and the toolkit to build the next one, anywhere in your work or life.

The people who get ahead are not the ones chasing the latest tool or trend. They understand the principles of how these tools work, so they can build a system that is personal to them, their tools and their business.

A day with your Chief of Staff

An example.

07:30	Your brief lands: meetings, what needs you, what's overdue.
Before meetings	Prep notes from your email and past calls.

After calls	Actions into your tracker, follow-ups drafted for you to check.
17:30	Review: what went well, what to fix tomorrow.

Six things you leave with.

The real outcome is that you don't depend on a tool, a vendor or us. You'll know how your system is built and why it works, rather than deploying something you don't understand or can't be sure is safe. So when the tools change, you rebuild it. When another part of your business or life needs a system, you design it. And when your team needs one, you can show them how.

01

Your AI Chief of Staff

Running on your real email, diary, files and tasks.

02

The building blocks, understood

What each piece is, why it matters, how to build and test it.

03

Your own skills

Built and scored on your own work, yours to keep.

04

Your next system, mapped

The same pieces pointed at another part of your business.

05

A before and after

On the Accelerator X AI capability assessment, with your report.

06

A 90-day plan and a peer group

Plus three months in the Accelerator X Community: ongoing access to us for Q&A, support from your peers, and members-only content and resources.

IS THIS FOR YOU?

For leaders who'll lead the AI conversation. Not be led by it.

Right fit if you...

- Are a founder, CEO, MD or Head of Operations who wants to run the business on a system you understand, not a pile of tools.
- Lead a function in an organisation moving too slowly on AI, and want to lead it yourself, among peers doing the same.
- Can commit to a 90-minute live session each week for 8 weeks.
- Are comfortable being challenged by peers.

Probably not for you if you...

- Mainly want a certificate (there isn't one).
- Can't make the weekly slot.

What you'll need

A paid Claude plan and the desktop app

90 minutes a week, in the same slot

Access to your own email and diary

No technical skills required

I paid for our marketing leader to join Accelerator X's AI skills programme after several founder friends raved about the impact. I expected some useful tips. I didn't expect this scale of change. Since she completed the programme, I've found myself becoming the bottleneck. Sending one person on a course has changed my expectations of what our whole business can achieve.

What past participants say

Having seen the difference first-hand, I think founders who put off acquiring these skills risk seriously underestimating how quickly others are pulling ahead.

Rob Liddiard · Founder, Yes Chef

I haven't felt this excited about my business in years.

Charlotte Steedman · CEO, Conductor

Hands-on from day one. You don't just learn AI, you leave with processes already running and a clear plan for what's next.

HOW WE RUN ACCELERATOR X

From one system to your whole operating model.

We started with a Chief of Staff. Then we used the same building blocks across the whole business, with Claude as the brain. This is what that looks like today.

End to end: one sales call

1
Fathom records the call

2
The sales agent drafts the CRM update

3
You approve it

4
The CRM is updated

5
The Chief of Staff agent adds the follow-up to tomorrow's brief

Built for our own business first. Now for our clients. This is what the bootcamp teaches you to start.

WHO RUNS IT

Two founders who run their own business on these systems.

Toby Henry

Co-founder, Accelerator X

Two decades across tier-one management consultancies, startups and scale-ups, leading transformation programmes for some of the UK's largest organisations.

Andy Carroll

Co-founder, Accelerator X

Eighteen years leading product across startups, banks and fintechs. Andy gets deep into the customer and business problem, then designs solutions that work for both tech and people.

We build AI systems for our own business and for clients. Everything in the bootcamp is something we use ourselves, and the accelerators you get (the skill builder, the skill evaluator, and the discovery and use case coach) are the ones we built for our own work. More about us.

QUESTIONS

The questions cohort applicants ask.

How much time does this take?

90 minutes a week live, the three-hour in-person session in week 5, and some practice in between. The practice is building your own system, so it pays back as you go. If your diary genuinely won't flex for a weekly session, apply for the next cohort when the timing is better.

Will my company expense this?

Most cohort members expense this or put it through professional development budgets. At £3,000, it sits under many L&D thresholds without board approval. We can provide an invoice addressed to your company and a one-page brief on what the programme covers.

What if a competitor of mine applies?

We vet every application with this in mind. If we identify a conflict at application stage, we'll flag it with both parties before confirming either place. Once a cohort is confirmed, every member has signed off on the non-competing composition.

Can my whole team join?

No: this is a director/function-owner programme designed for the person who owns the AI agenda, not their team. If you want to bring AI capability across a whole team or organisation, our Company Enablement track is designed for that.

What if I miss a session?

We ask you not to. Eight weekly sessions: that's the commitment. If something unavoidable comes up, we'll share the session recording. But the peer value is live, and you can't replay a room.

Is there a guarantee?

Yes: no value, no payment. You get two full sessions and the resources are yours to keep; if it's not for you, tell us before the third and you owe nothing. There's also a pre-cohort interview (a 1:1 with a founder) before we confirm your place, so we only proceed if it's a genuine fit on both sides.

Do I need to be technical?

No. There's no code in this room. You build with Claude, in plain language, around your own work. We teach the system architecture underneath so you understand what you've built and can extend it yourself.

Do I have to come in person?

It's the best way to do week 5, but it's not required. Participants have travelled from across the UK and abroad, and many are London-based. The venue and date are still to be confirmed. If you can't be there, you join live by video, and everyone gets the recording and all the session materials.

Do I need the latest agent tools I keep hearing about?

No. Many of those tools are a distraction if you don't understand the architecture underneath. Once you know how to use Claude properly, you can build a more capable personal agent, and a whole agentic system, that you control and can extend to any part of your work or life.

How big is the cohort?

Small by design. We expect between 10 and 15 senior leaders, and we vet every application so the room stays non-competing.

Is it only for Claude?

We build in Claude because it's what we run our own business on. The building blocks carry across to any AI tool.

What if my company locks down email and diary?

Tell us before you join. We can set you up on your own files, and the building blocks are the same.

Do I get a certificate?

No. You get a working system on your own work, which is more useful.
